GRANITEVILLE.

Quarry workers, attention! The regular meeting of branch No. 12, Q. W. U. of N. A. will be held in the basement of St. Sylvester's church Wednesday evening at 7 o'clock. Business of importance—election of an international union president. Every member is requested to be present. Per order of secretary.

The regular business meeting of the ladies' aid society will be held in the home of Mrs. M. A. McDonald at upper Graniteville Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. A large attendance is desired, as business of importance is to come before the meeting.

MARSHFIELD.

A harvest dinner will be served at the Congregational church Wednesday, Oct. 8, at the usual price. Following this there will be the regular meeting for sewing. As there is much work to be done, every lady, whether a member of the society or not, is urged to be present and sew.

Does Roosevelt go away to "come back?"

Mrs. Pankhurst wants $1,500 a speech in the United States. We should suffer yet!

The New Haven railroad system has found it costly to have wrecks. Some other railroad systems have found the same to be true and subsequently decided to save money.

After wiping out a year-old debt, the Brattleboro baseball association in the Twin State league finds itself with a balance of nearly $1,000 on hand. Apparently they can figure, as well as play ball down in Brattleboro. The result is rather extraordinary in baseball-dom in Vermont, especially in those towns which were in the Northern league of former days. Brattleboro has a system worth copying.

According to the Burlington Free Press, an attempt is being made by some dark men to keep Governor Fletcher from introducing the attorney general of the United States on the occasion of the latter's visit to Vermont. We should say that such a most dastardly, such a most wanton, such a most heinous attempt ought to be nipped right in the bud, instantly. The very idea!

There is no doubt that the best team in each of the major baseball leagues won the championship in its league and, therefore, the meeting between the two for settling the "world's championship" will be a battle royal between two splendid machines. It is to be a fitting finale to another season of the greatest sport of modern times, a sport in which millions of people take more or less interest, a sport, moreover, which is being kept to a high standard considering the chances for its debauchment.

Augustus P. Gardner is proving himself to be no quitter because he refuses to give up four policies which the Republican state convention in Massachusetts refused to accept Saturday and announces that in the coming campaign he will fight for those policies as well as for the election as governor. Gardner does not believe that he should go back on the principles which he espoused when seeking votes for the Republican nomination, inasmuch as he was nominated on those principles. The Massachusetts Republicans realize that they have a candidate with a backbone and with courage enough to defy his own party if he should think it necessary. Gardner's fearlessness is likely to get him votes from unexpected sources.

REPORTING WHAT IS NOT SAID.

The newspapers which printed that part of Roosevelt's recent speech in New York which he did not deliver, the part having been cut out following the delivery of the advance copies to the newspapers, forfeited their right in the future to be accommodated by advance

William Duval Caught in Belt in Stoneshed and in Critical Condition.

William Duval, 17-year-old son of Mrs. A. Duval, was caught in a belt Saturday in the shed of the National Granite company and received such serious injuries that he is now in a critical condition at Heaton hospital. The young man was a tool grinder and it is supposed that, while about his work, his clothing came in contact with the belt, lifting him from the floor and hurling him against the stone and iron framework with great force. Luckily, this framework was loose, and when his body struck it, it swung around and struck the belt, throwing it off the pulley. This undoubtedly saved Duval's life. As it was, his arm was fractured and he was badly injured about the head and shoulders.

Two breach of peace cases against Ernest Peghini and Homer E. Savoie were taken up in city court Saturday afternoon, and both were found guilty. Peghini being fined $10 and costs of $11.02, while Savoie was fined $5 and costs of $12.08. The attorneys of each took an appeal, being given 21 days to enter the case in county court or drop it. The trouble arose over the refusal of Savoie to lend Peghini a bush chisel in a stoneshed, Savoie refusing on the ground that his boss had told him not to lend it. Blows followed, it is alleged.

The Rule to Follow When Sick

When you are sick, there is only one rule to follow. Don't trifle with medicine of doubtful value or take something that is recommended to you by a friend. See a doctor. Have him diagnose your case. That's the only way to get the right medicine for your particular condition. Bring your doctor's prescription to us, and we will give you exactly what his prescription calls for. We are qualified to do good work and our charges are very reasonable.
